"What town were you born in?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"There wasn't anytown there," replied Mr. Jordan. "It was twenty miles from a railroad station."

Mr. Jordan has lived all over Texas as a cattleman. From 1872 to 1881 he worked at a rowboy for a ranch owner whose meme was Mudd.

The witness admitted that he ned used other names chan Jordan. On the range he was known as "Skinny" Martin and called himself John Marshall after the great railroad strike in 1886. He was a striker and vus blacklisted under his own name. He gayly admitted acquaintance with one Bud Ellis, Jim Grass and Big Annie, who runs a saloon in Galveston.
